Steel Corporation Reveals Price Hike

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The giant U.S. Steel Corp., a leader in one of the nation's basic industries, increased its prices today.

The price hike, announced Tuesday added an average of $6 to the cost of a ton of steel, which has been selling for a little more than $150.

What effect it will have on the prices of other steel firms was not immediately determined. U.S. Steel, biggest producer in the nation, customarily sets the price pattern for the industry.

Steel prices have an effect on prices in the auto, construction and appliance industries, all big steel users.

The increase came less than a week after U.S. Steel and 10 other big firms signed new two-year labor contracts with the United Steelworkers to take effect July 1.

Those pacts, granting a 10-cent-an-hour package increase to each basic steelworker, were hailed by President Kennedy as responsible and noninflationary, adhering to the President's plea for an early, noninflationary steel settlement.

President Leslie B. Worthington of U.S. Steel said the price hike was necessary because of a continuing cost-price squeeze on profits since 1958. He said these costs have continued to rise without even considering higher labor costs after July 1 under the new contracts.

Worthington described the price increase as modest, amounting to about 3.5 per cent.

President Kennedy, however, reportedly took a dim view of the hike. One of his aides said the chief executive would issue "a very strong statement against the price boost."

David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers' president, said he was "surprised, troubled and concerned" about the price hike.

Referring to the just-concluded steel-labor negotiations, McDonald said "we had no understanding and no discussion with the company on prices."

President Thomas F. Patton of Republic Steel quickly responded by saying, "Republic certainly needs a price increase, and will review the reported action of U.S. Steel immediately."

Other steel firms withheld immediate comment. Bethlehem Steel President Edmund F. Martin told a stockholders meeting Tuesday that Bethlehem was trying to hold the line on prices despite stiffening competition.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., the Justice Department said they would investigate the steel price situation and hinted at possible antitrust action if there is a general round of price hikes in the industry.

Teacher Strike In New York Stirs Pupil Riot

Police Restore Order As 2,300 Throw Paper

NEW YORK (AP)—A teacher strike for more pay disrupted school operations throughout the city today and led to a pupil riot at a school on Manhattan's Lower East Side.

The disorder erupted at the Seward Park High School shortly after the bell rang for morning classes. Rowdiness broke out among 2,300 pupils who had first gathered in the auditorium.

They began throwing papers out the windows then were ordered from the school when 15 non-striking teachers and four policemen were unable to control them.

As the pupils reached the street, about half a dozen boys began swinging wildly at each other as hundreds of others milled about. Police waded in to halt the battle. Reinforcements were summoned.

Police expressed belief that the presence of a television truck and camera crew recording the scene may have prompted the students to put on something of a show.

Most of the school's teachers were marching in a picket line around the building.

There were conflicting reports on the immediate effectiveness of the strike from a citywide standpoint. Authorities sought to keep classes going with teachers who did not join in the walkout.

Representatives of the teachers union that struck claimed that schools other than Seward Park had been forced to close. The Board of Education denied it.

A union spokesman said he expected most of the city's schools would be closed sooner or later. He said more than 4,000 teachers were picketing. This would be about one-tenth the total employed.

The striking teachers defied both nonstrike laws and threats of dismissal to stage their walkout, called in protest of what they termed a starvation budget.

At a meeting attended by 5,000 of the 40,000 teachers Tuesday night, members of the United Federation of Teachers shouted down President Charles Cogen's postponement plea and elected by a margin of 313 votes to strike the 900 schools.

The union leadership immediately closed ranks. It was predicted that up to 10,000 teachers would be on the picket lines today and that at least 30,000 would fail to show up for work.

The federation, which has 15,000 members, is the bargaining agent

AT CHAMBER DINNER — Pictured (top) at speaker's table at Salem Area Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet Tuesday evening at Emmanuel Lutheran Church are J. Raymond Stiver, president of the C. of C.; Robert Potter, president of the Mullins Mfg. Co., who was toastmaster; Dr. John H. Furbay of Trans World Airlines, the principal speaker, and Dr. A. M. Orders to Aid Employment, Potter Says

300 Attend Annual Banquet; Furbay Is Speaker; Null Cited

Another boost to Salem's economy was promised Tuesday night when Robert Potter, president of Mullins Manufacturing Co., announced an impending recall of a number of employees laid off by the company.

Addressing the annual Salem Area Chamber of Commerce dinner at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church education building, Potter, who served as toastmaster, said the return to work of those employees will be the result of a sizeable order newly placed with Mullins by an automobile manufacturer. The number of workers to be recalled was not divulged.

Potter told the more than 300 persons in attendance that the previously announced relocation here of the J. M. Lehmann Co. will be consummated in the near future.

The transfer of the New Jersey firm's facilities to Salem, he said, will create an additional 35 to 50 jobs for local people. The Lehmann company manufactures processing machinery for the soap, paint and chocolate industries.

Reviewing Mullins' progress since its purchase in November 1961 by the group which he heads, Potter declared, "After the first five months of operation, we have turned the major corner. We have broken even."

The speaker declared he is constantly asked by Salem residents, "When are you going to move everything back here?", in reference to the company-owned properties in Warren which manufacture the Youngstown Kitchens line of kitchen cabinets, dishwashers and related items.

Asserting that the firm has not yet established final policies for the future, Potter said its course is dependent upon a number of "intangibles."

He said a community that wants to attract industry must first develop an atmosphere and spirit compatible with its objective.

"Salem should be a great place for business," he said, "not the reverse, that business should be great for Salem." He cited low taxes, adequate utilities, schools and recreational facilities, and a graft and corruption-free municipal government as inducements to industry.

Paraphrasing a statement in President Kennedy's inaugural address, Potter said, "It's not what industry owes the city, but what the city owes industry."

The speaker expressed his faith in Salem and said he and his family are looking forward to moving back here.

Guest speaker at the dinner, whose theme was the new Chamber of Commerce motto, "Salem Is A-OK for You in '62," was Dr. John H. Furbay, who is in charge of the cultural and educational programs for Trans World Airlines.

Discussing on the topic, "Countdown to Tomorrow," Dr. Furbay stressed the rapidity with which the world is changing through its use of the air as a travel and communication medium.

"The greatest change taking place now is the emergence of the uncivilized two-thirds of the people on earth from their tribal status," he said.

"Which governmental philosophy these people will adopt, Russia or America, is the question."

Niles Firm Is Low On County Bridge Job

A Niles firm was the apparent low bidder Tuesday on a project to construct a bridge taking State Route 518 over the west fork of Little Beaver Creek in Wayne Township, Columbiana County.

The Niles Soda & Lusher Construction Co. bid $302,593 which is almost $13,000 under the Ohio Highway Department's estimate for the project.

United Church Move Expands Seven Protestant Sects Now Included

WASHINGTON (AP)—A broad scale attempt to unite a large part of American protestantism today was off to a vigorous start.

How far it will get, and at what pace it will move, hinged on many unknown factors.

But leaders of four major denominations, the United Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal, Methodist and United Church of Christ, not only gave the effort a firm, initial push, but set up machinery to keep it going and expanded it by asking three other church bodies to take part.

The four-way merger project became a likely seven-way affair, involving communions with about 23 million members.

Wednesday, at the end of a two-day conference held to make a preliminary appraisal of the prospects, denominational representatives said they found grounds for genuine confidence that such a united church could become a reality.

"Decisions made and attitudes revealed here carried us much further than we had dared hope," said the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, chief executive of the United Presbyterian Church.

Similar reactions came from leaders of the three other denominations.

The conference, which originally planned to defer any operational decisions until the next meeting, acted instead to set up immediately a continuing consultation on church union.

The Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, Presbyterian, was named chairman, and Methodist Charles C. Parlin, a New York lawyer, was named secretary.

Although the next full meeting won't come until a year from now, subcommittees were to work during the interim to try to resolve various issues.

The three other denominations being invited to join in the effort are the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), the Evangelical United Brethren and the Polish National Catholic Church of America.

'Between Two Thieves' Opens; Third Present

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Now playing at Lima's Encore Theater is an amateur drama group production called "Between Two Thieves."

Members of the cast told police Tuesday there must have been a third thief.

During Saturday night's performance, they reported, someone stole their drama flag, the traditional black masks of comedy and tragedy on a yellow field. It's valued at $29.

SENTENCED TO PRISON

CLEVELAND (AP) — Attorney Lawrence A. Krasny and Howard Green have been sentenced to 11-30 years in Ohio Penitentiary on armed robbery and aggravated assault convictions.

Krasny, 28, of Cleveland Heights, and Green, also 28, of East Cleveland, had pleaded guilty to charges of beating, pistol-whipping and robbing Mrs. Otto Blum and her maid and gardener last Oct. 19.

Tests Will Proceed on Schedule

U.S., Britain Fail In Last Truce Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain appeared today to be completely stalled against an unyielding wall of Soviet opposition in their last-ditch effort to get Moscow's agreement to an enforceable treaty banning nuclear tests.

While formally expressing hope that Soviet Premier Khrushchev will yet reverse his policy against an international inspection system to police a test ban, officials here actually see no prospect that this will happen.

President Kennedy is therefore going ahead with plans to start atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons in about two weeks. The tests will be held over the Central Pacific during a period of about two months, and officials indicate that there will be between 30 and 40 nuclear explosions involved.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told the House of Commons in London Tuesday that he will go on pressing for East-West agreement on a test ban "to the last possible moment."

It became apparent Tuesday that while Kennedy has shown reluctance to go into the test series, Macmillan is under much greater home-front political pressure to continue demonstrating the desire to put an end to all tests.

By agreement between Kennedy and Macmillan, the United States and Britain issued a joint statement which amounted to a warning to the Russians and to the

Returned to Lithuania to Marry

Distraught Man Says Reds Hold Daughter

CHICAGO (AP) — A distraught father says the Russians trapped his younger daughter behind the Iron Curtain after she returned to Lithuania to marry her high school sweetheart.

"I had warned Regina for a long time that she should not return to (Lithuania) Vilnius," said the father, Paulius Leonas. "I warned her again at the airport. But she didn't want to believe it."

Leonas talked freely but angrily about an article in the Soviet newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda Tuesday. The article quoted his daughter, Regina Leonas, 22, as saying the United States was a money-mad society and that she wanted to stay in her native Lithuania and never return to America.

"Our daughter is an actual prisoner," Leonas said. "She would never have made those statements, because they are contrary to her convictions. She was forced by threats of violence."

"Regina would be ashamed if she saw what has been printed about her."

Regina and her brother were separated from their parents for 16 years during and after World War II. Regina returned to Vilnius, capital of Lithuania, last month to marry Stasys Bikulcius, a young music teacher whom she met in high school.

"I'm prepared to fight—to fight for my own family," Leonas asserted. "Regina had love for that boy, not for Moscow."

Leonas, 45, a real estate broker, said Regina had mixed emotions when she left March 21 for Lithuania, formerly a nation but now a state in the Soviet Union.

"She expected happiness in marriage," he said. "She wouldn't believe us when we told her the danger of communism—that the Russians might be setting a trap for her. She had not been entirely happy here because she was lonely for the boy."

Leonas and his wife, Elena, 44, fled their Lithuanian home in 1944 for Germany, leaving Regina and their son, Tomas, now 20, with their maternal grandparents on a farm near Vilnius.

The Leonas' spent three years in Germany, three years in England and three years in Canada before

Using Historical References

Vice President Going Literary In Speeches

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is going literary.

Johnson, whose 25 years on the national scene have included some rough and tumble politicking, is beginning to stud his speeches with classical and historical references that seldom found their way into his sometimes bluntly phrased remarks in the past.

The feeling among some of his associates is that Johnson is taking a page out of the book of President Kennedy, who operates with an acute sense of history and from a seemingly inexhaustible store of quotations.

Johnson could feel that it would be no drawback to a man who might like to run for president in 1968 to be known as one who has delved into the scholarly accomplishments of the past and can apply them to today's problems.

In his most recent speech, before a Pennsylvania State University audience Tuesday, Johnson

Discussions For Area Park Under Way

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said Tuesday that discussions under way with neighboring Pennsylvania officials could result in the creation of a 22,000-acre park area in northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

The proposed area would include Beaver Creek State Park in Columbiana County, a 1,232-acre spread of undeveloped terrain intersected by the Little Beaver Creek.

"It is an ideal location for such a park," Gov. DiSalle pointed out, "lying half way between Cleveland and Pittsburgh and in the midst of one of the nation's most heavily populated areas."

The proposed park under discussion would be about half in Ohio and half in Pennsylvania. It would be composed chiefly of rugged, primitive terrain, the governor said.

The discussions are between Ohio Natural Resources Director Herbert Eagon and officials of Pennsylvania's Department of Water and Forestry, the U. S. Park Service and the Western Pennsylvania Conservancy.

Park and Natural Resources officials announced about six weeks ago that the district was being surveyed and considered as a U. S. park site.

Dirksen Sweeps Illinois Primary

Wins 6-1 In Bid For 3rd Senate Term

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, Republican leader in the Senate with nearly 28 years service in Congress, coasted to an easy victory in the Illinois primary election Tuesday.

The 66-year-old veteran political campaigner, bidding for a third Senate term, piled up a 6-1 victory over Harley D. Jones, 69, a politically unknown Chicago lawyer.

Dirksen, who made his first race for a Senate seat in 1950 after eight terms as a representative in Congress from the Peoria-Peoria district, will be opposed in the Nov. 6 general election by Sidney R. Yates, 52, a seven-term congressman from Chicago's North Side.

Yates, with the backing of the regular Democratic party organization, won the nomination over Lar Daly of Chicago, who has been unsuccessful in 20 years of running for major offices including the presidency in 1960. Daly, however, made his strongest showing to date and held Yates' victory margin to about 3-1.

Returns from 9,222 of the state's 10,343 precincts gave Dirksen 611,196 votes to 93,701 for Jones. Yates led Daly 645,649 to 199,548. The primary, the first in the nation this year, was marked by a lack of spirited races. The voting was comparatively light downstate but was exceptionally heavy in Chicago.

The big turnout in Chicago was attributed to the vote on six bond issues totaling $66 million dollars which had the backing of Mayor Richard J. Daley, the state's Democratic leader. All six of the proposals, calling for public improvements, were defeated in a vote which election officials said appeared the highest in a primary since 1942.

Twenty-one members of Congress won re-nominations, with no close contests. Three Republican House members did not seek re-election.

Cuba: Land of Plenty Now Starves

Indigestible Communist Stew

EDITOR'S NOTE—On an island surrounded by limitless resources of the Caribbean, Cubans can't buy enough fish, beans, poultry, and many other staples always abundant before now are rationed. In this first of two articles, an Associated Press news analyst explains why communism in Cuba and throughout the Red world fails to satisfy the primary human requirement: food.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Here is the recipe for an indigestible Communist stew:

Mix large quantities of rigid dogma with vast centralized bureaucracy. Spice liberally with fear, adding generous portions of cautious toadism. Garnish with red tape. Bring to a boil over slow-burning resentment.

Ever since it gained power in Russia in 1917, communism in country after country has meant belt-tightening—shortages of food and consumer goods.

Why has world communism's latest acquisition, the lush, fertile island of Cuba, been forced to impose rationing in a food crisis? Fantastically, even fish—on an island surrounded by the limitless resources of the Caribbean—is in short supply for Cubans.

These seem to be the answers: 1. Communist lust for power. Once having seized it, they require enormous investment in arms to secure and protect it.

2. A fever for rapid industrialization, with heavy industry which builds more power receiving the lion's share of the national wealth.

3. Ruthless extermination of all vestiges of the past.

4. Regimentation of the population, and with this the establishment of vast bureaucracies responsible only to the center.

5. Use of national resources for political purposes abroad.

6. Frequent passive resistance among farm populations.

Cuba is the latest case in point. As communism tightens on the island's six million people, results show up in shortages. Quickly, the nation is drenched with Red bloc arms. All resources, effort and manpower available are geared primarily to entrenching Red power.

Thus, men and women who should be producing are marching in swollen militia ranks, waving guns serving on more than 100,000 defense committees designed as a spy system to prevent counterrevolution, or populating innumerable bureaucratic government organizations designed to keep all power in the hands of the few in the center.

As it did in other states seized by communism, agriculture in Cuba went through a convulsion. The thriving cattle industry was destroyed, farms and plantations were taken over by INRA, the Communist-controlled National Institute for Agrarian Reform. Peasants were paid in scrip and required to trade only in state-run people's stores.

With the rise of the bureaucratic police state, with all the pressures and fears it brought, individual initiative was killed. The middle class was chased out of the country, and with it too many of Cuba's skilled, educated people.

Speeches of Cuban Communist leaders have a familiar, parrot-like sound, echoing the dismal recitations heard year after year in all other Red-ruled states.

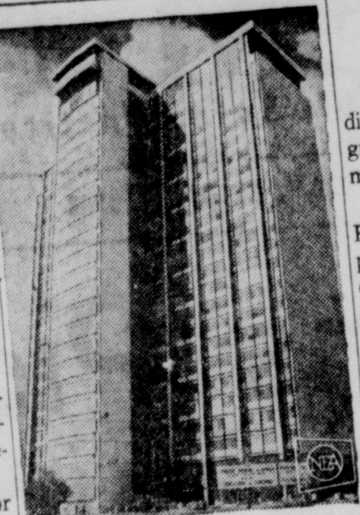

The speeches concede developments like these: Production of sugar, always the mainstay of Cuba's economy, is dropping steadily. There is a severe shortage of cane cutters. "Socialist Sundays" have been proclaimed, dragging people into service and forbidding workers on collectivized plantations to take that day off. Machinery is falling into disrepair at many a sugar center.

Distribution has gone haywire. Black beans, a staple of Cuban diet, spoil in warehouses. Beans are rationed, four ounces per person per week. With what beans that finally get into distribution, bureaucrats follow orders out the window. Thus in some places, said the Communist INRA chief Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, "a degree of negative perfectionism" was achieved when the four ounces was broken up into two ounces of lentils and two ounces of black beans per person.

Distribution of meat is chaotic. There are districts which go without meat for weeks. The same applies to poultry, a favorite item of the Cuban diet.

Communist Hungary delivered refrigerator vans to Havana on an urgent basis. Rodriguez reported the chief of the "consolidated meat industry" didn't want them, so the "chief of the chicken section" grabbed all of them. Then, suddenly, all bureaucrats wanted the vans. None was available. Food spoiled.

The Cuban experience is by no means unique. It is a repetition of what has happened at one time or another in every Communist-ruled nation. Even today, more than half a century after communism, first entrenched itself in Russia, the promise of abundance remains just a misty dream.

Starts on Meat, Potato Issues

JFK Takes Spotlight Off Flashy Business

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—It's like the sun in your eyes.
The flashy things—nuclear test ban talks, disarmament talks, Berlin talks—blot out much of the meat-and-potato business here at home.
That business is President Kennedy's programs.
He has dropped a mob of them in Congress' basket. After three months of 1962, it's a fair time to ask how he is doing with them. It's simply answered: He is setting no records and, at the rate he's going, he won't be.
The list of his proposals passed by Congress is impressively small. Only two items which could remotely be called major programs have won approval of both houses and been signed into law. In one Congress raised the national debt limit to $300 billion, highest since the war, although it was only a 2 billion increase. The other permits training of up to a million unemployed workers for new skills.

The rest of his programs are either stuck in committees or have been passed by only one house of Congress and will die of exhaustion from waiting unless the other House also approves. Two of his major appeals got a dismal reception. The House killed his plan for a new department of urban affairs and housing. His plan of federal aid for public schools looks as dead as it did last year.

It is understood he will make an all-out pitch to get approval for his program of medical care for the aged, but his efforts on this one so far have not been rocking the walls of the Capitol.
On everything else he is using the same tactics as last year. Using these tactics, strictly professional and unsensational, the President works directly on the members of Congress, or through his aides, while avoiding ill-will, harsh words, or appeals to the public to put pressure on Congress.
The President's personal popularity, as reflected in the public opinion polls, is astonishingly high. So, even if much of his over-all program gets massacred, he'll probably remain highly liked.

Last week, after a lot of bickering among Republicans, Kennedy got the Senate to approve his request for authority to buy up to $100 million in U.N. bonds.
Now the House has to act and that may mean another rocky time of it. The House, but not yet the Senate, approved a boost in postal rates.
The Senate also approved a proposed constitutional amendment to wipe out the poll tax as a requirement for voting. Five Southern states still have it.
This won't get off the ground unless the House also approves. In the Senate the Southern Democrats filibustered a few days and then let the vote be taken. The filibuster was more a gesture for the benefit of the folks back home than a practical effort to stop passage.
The House, but not yet the Senate, passed a tax-revision measure. House and Senate both approved federal aid for college classroom construction, but they did it differently. This can't become law unless they agree on a compromise.

All the other major programs are still bogged down in committees. They include emergency power for the President to cut taxes and launch antirecession public works programs; broadening unemployment insurance; a new farm program; new civil rights legislation; continuation of foreign aid program; drastic revision of the foreign trade program.

What Did U.S. Aid Do In Europe?

Business Week, surveying ominous signs of things going awry in Latin America, is wondering what United States aid should be doing down there.

It's a good thing to be curious about at the beginning of a multi-billion-dollar foreign aid program. What are citizens of the United States supposed to believe when Latin Americans come under the heavy-handed rule of the men on horseback who proverbially dominate Latin American politics?

There is no way to twist the evidence of the recent military junta in Argentina to make it look like a democratic regime. The fact is Arturo Frondizi was ousted by Argentine militarists for showing too much faith in popular government.

Nor would there be any way to put a good face on seizure of privately owned utilities in Brazil if that is done there. It would be an affront to all potential private investors in that country.

HOW DO SUCH things fit in with the rosy prospectus of the Alliance for Progress, which is expected to cost the United States a minimum of $10 billion, plus another 10 billion to be made available through international funds?

How will the United States cope with affronts to the principle of popular rule and denials of the principles of free elections?

Is it going to be possible to sell Latin America the virtues and merits of a form of government along with the main thing the United States wants to sell Latin America, which is independence of international communism?

The same trouble existed in Europe at the beginning of the foreign aid program. Could ideology be made to follow the dollar? How could foreign aid be justified for Yugoslavia, dominated by a communist regime? What was to be done about Italy's powerful Communist party? What about the absence of free elections in Spain, where the United States was planning to build costly air bases in lieu of outright foreign aid?

IN EUROPE, foreign aid could be justified when doubts arose by the claim that it was the best possible way to accomplish two things—offset communistic pressure and keep the avenues of trade open to U.S. goods and influence. Ultimately, it did both, plus one more thing that hadn't been foreseen.

It equipped European enterprise with modern machinery for a massive break-through into modern industrialism—a break-through so spectacular that Europeans now are out-doing Americans in efficient mass production of some mass-consumption goods. That is the real significance of the European Common Market—it is a market for mass production.

U.S. foreign aid in Europe did not guarantee ideology suitable to U.S. principles. It did not keep governments from selling private property. It did not guarantee free elections. But it did keep international communism from capturing Europe by default.

That seems to be what U.S. aid is aiming to do in Latin America.

How to Throw the Rascals Out

Chinese Communist party members are saying harsh things about one another and again there is evidence of a party purge in the making.

These purges are always news, whether they occur in the Chinese People's Republic, Castro's Cuba, or Khrushchev's Russia. But they are by no means in the category of men biting dogs. They don't signify any sudden shift in the balance of nature.

They are more like news about politics in the United States.

However harsh the current comments of Chinese Communists may be, they are no harsher than the things that will be said this year the length and breadth of our own land as politicians fight tooth and nail for survival.

Some of the harshest things are said in campaigns leading up to the primary elections, where the contenders are struggling to survive inside their own parties. They grow so bitter in primary campaigns that election campaigns sometimes are a let-down. The politicians don't hate the opposition in the two-party system as much as they hate their own associates.

In the Soviet Union, the People's Republic of China and other communistic states, everything is within one party. There is no other party.

When it's time to cope with the opposition, the only way to do it is by a party purge.

The only way to throw out a rascal, which is the thing every politician aims to do, is to throw out a brother. Yet whenever it happens the news services pick it up and present it as evidence of a forthcoming crackup.

The evidence is to the contrary. It is more likely a sign of strength than of weakness, because every purge is something like an election. When it's over the air has been cleared and things can proceed from there.

The two-party system by any other name works about the same.

A Responsible Job

No one would criticize William Wark for resigning as Columbiana County Civil Defense director. His is a thankless job of community responsibility, but the Salem dry cleaner should be commended for his 6 years of service both as a county and city CD director. He devoted many hours to the task and made many talks to acquaint other organizations with preparedness plans. His successor, named by county commissioners, is Felix Rutecki of Lisbon, who also has been long active in civil defense work and is well-qualified.

Once Over

Eddie Arcaro, famous jockey, has quit racing at the age of 46. This should be a lesson to all millionaires. All fabulously rich men everywhere should be studying his decision and asking themselves, "Just because I am piling up money without a horse should I continue to live dangerously?"

State and national governments could interfere and block Arcaro's retirement for simple reason that they need the taxes on his earnings. They can get them from him with less trouble than from anybody in other businesses because all they have to do is read racing results.

It seems to us some financial problems of Uncle Sam could be happily answered by asking for racing sheets and, in a sense, playing jockeys, if not horses. There was always Arcaro in a tough economic crisis. And Longden, Shoemaker and others are helping finance American aid all over world, failing only when they are crowded out in stretch, drop their whips or lose a photo finish.

There are times when secretary of treasury could call on Eddie, as well as top economic advisers, in solving debt problems.

We can imagine Washington Cabinet meeting in which these questions could be asked: "Can we afford this loan to Argentina with Arcaro out of action?" "Should he be requested to return to racing until money to support United Nations is solvent?" and "Doesn't U.S. budget problem require that Arcaro keep riding to pay for Peace Corps?"

It might also be asked what chance Viet Nam policy has "at the weights," whether those handling South American aid need more workouts, are U.S. delegates to Geneva lame and if Brazil is really trying with entry of "Austerity" and "Democracy?"

Administration needs a good judge of pace and could use Arcaro in Cabinet as secretary of horse race income. Eddie is taking job as field agent of American Totalization Corp., operating mutuels at 165 tracks. (This gives him chance to realize what a rough ride horse players can get and how they react when they claim a foul through being sold wrong ticket).

President Kennedy has named Economic Panel to consider aspects of economy and we nominated Arcaro for a place on it. He has been in 24,092 contests, won nearly 5,000 races and taken purses of more than 30 million. No other member of panel could do that well, even on Kelso or Jaipure.

Formidable!

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

TYLER, Tex. A pincer now pressuring the big steel union could well squeeze $10 million out of its treasury.

One of the prongs is here, deep in the heart of Texas.

The other is up in cooler Canada. The temperature is cooler, not the tempers, that is. Each prong is a lawsuit asking well over $5 million from the United Steelworkers.

Each lawsuit has been brought by a company struck hard by this union away back in '57. But the lawsuits are very much up to the minute.

In fact, I've been watching the Canadian case in Quebec's Superior Court for months. It is the longest court trial in Canadian legal history. It began Sept. 26, 1960. The last of 355 witnesses—who totaled more than three million words of testimony—was heard on Feb. 6, 1962.

In Canada, where a decision is not expected until next autumn, the suit for damages was brought by the Gaspe Copper Mines, Ltd.

Here in Texas, virtually an identical twin legal action—though unrelated to the Canadian—has been filed in the Dallas Federal District Court by the Lone Star Steel Co., of Lone Star, Tex.

These are sleepers. They could do to labor relations what jets did to the propeller.

IF THE COURTS award millions to the companies, it would mean that mill owners will be less reluctant to operate their plants in open defiance of a strike.

For years now, many have thought of most picket lines as coffee stands to which employers dispatch refreshments and television sets. But that's only because they have attempted to keep their plants open in the face of parading strikers. Some companies have.

Two of those are Lone Star Steel and Gaspe Copper Mines. Then, pickets did what pickets have been doing traditionally, ever since somebody invented the dues stamp. Things got noisy and rough.

Both Lone Star and Gaspe continued to operate.

Over in Lone Star, the company finally fired 2,600 union men, and housed inside the plant the 700 who reported for work. The union lost this one. A contract was signed—wage increases and all. But the company refused to give the strikers the jobs of the men who had gone through the picket line.

In fact, the firm insisted successfully that the loyalists get "preferred seniority." This meant that they now outranked many of the oldtimers.

THE STEEL UNION local offered to yield the pay increases—worth some $2 million—if the company would yield on the special seniority.

The company retorted that it would have nothing to do with such an offer, to which it referred as a "$2 million bribe."

The new contract was a four-year pact running to 1965.

The company then said it would demand reimbursement for its losses during the 1957 wildcat strike.

Lone Star charged that $5 million actual damages had been incurred from lost business, heavy drops in production, big overtime pay bills to make up lost production and its inability to ship its pipe products even after it resumed production.

THEN LONE STAR really hit hard. It not only demanded legal and court costs, but it asked that the union pay for the cost of the maintenance of the non-strikers during the shut-in. The firm wants repayment for providing food, quarters and protection for the picket-line crossers. They had stayed inside the plant during the strike.

Lone Star also charged that these non-strikers had suffered property damage during the strike. Homes, autos, and other property had been damaged as a direct result of the strike, says the company. Lone Star paid its workers on this score and now wants the union to reimburse it.

Undoubtedly this case, which the company executives say is not just a tactic, finally will be decided in the Supreme Court. And up North the Canadians will settle their duel in their highest court.

These decisions are not exactly around the corner, but if the firms are upheld, a sharp corner in labor relations will have been turned.

Obvious Neglected

By DAVID LAWRENCE

U.S. Needs Department of Transportation

President Kennedy has just sent to Congress a 7,000-word essay on the need for a transportation policy, and he has made several while. Unfortunately, the President has neglected the obvious — the designation of a single executive or agency in the government to follow through and get the job done.

During the Eisenhower administration, it was recommended that a department of transportation be added to the Cabinet, but for some unexplained reason Mr. Kennedy does not renew this recommendation and leaves the whole subject of co-ordination in the same confused state it has been in for many years.

Mr. Kennedy rightly says that "an efficient and dynamic transportation system is vital to our domestic economic growth, productivity and progress" and that it affects the cost of every commodity consumed or exported.

But why is transportation, especially the railroad industry, in such a bad state today? The President provides one answer as follows:

"A chaotic patchwork of inconsistent and often obsolete legislation and regulation has evolved from a history of specific actions addressed to specific problems of specific industries at specific times. . . .

"The regulatory commission are required to make thousands of detailed decisions based on out-of-date standards. The management of various modes of transportation is subjected to excessive, cumbersome, and time consuming regulatory supervision that shackles and distorts managerial initiative."

Mr. Kennedy's message is filled with concrete proposals that request Congress to enact laws, for instance, permitting railroads to do away with minimum rates in opening up competitive opportunities as between water carriers and other modes of transportation.

He wants control of intercity passenger rates limited to the fixing only of maximum rates. He urges that certain excise taxes on transportation be removed and that a 3 per cent tax be placed on fuel used by air lines as a "minimal step toward recouping the heavy federal investment in the airways."

As for the subject of mergers, this is treated in a very abstract fashion and it is difficult to tell whether any beneficial results can be expected.

About all the President says is that he wants to form "an inter-agency group" which would be directed "to formulate general administration policies on mergers in each segment of the transportation industry and to assist the Department of Justice in developing a government position on each merger application or presentation before the regulatory agencies."

MR. KENNEDY speaks vaguely of "applying appropriate criteria to the circumstances and conditions of each particular case" involving a merger, and he promises to recommend "more specific guidelines than are now available."

This doesn't give much of a hint as to what's coming. What so many men in the business would have said before, some of the people in the transportation business are saying now: "The President talks a lot and puts some sensible idea in many of his messages, but he doesn't do anything about them."

Mr. Kennedy's latest message takes in a wide range of subjects from highway construction to urban transportation. He speaks of the problem of suburban travel and transit congestion in the big cities but it isn't clear just why the cities and states shouldn't tackle this by themselves without the intervention of the federal government.

The President, however, already sees in this field a new opportunity for a subsidy and recommends a $500-million appropriation by Congress out of which federal aid to urban transportation would regularly be provided.

Yet earlier in the same message, the President decries the effects of subsidies when he says:

"I am convinced that less federal regulation and subsidization is in the long run a prime requisite of a healthy inter-city transportation network."

IN AMERICA the railroads and other carriers which have been under strict government regulation have suffered all the disadvantages of a system of government ownership without enjoying any of the advantages of federal loans or grants for construction such as are provided in Europe, where railroads have been nationalized.

What really is needed in America is a department of transportation whose main function and purpose would be to get the carriers out from under government regulation and to make subsidies unnecessary. A Cabinet secretary devoting his whole time to transportation is necessary in order to fight constantly for a system of private initiative. The government should, of course, put ceilings on the top rates to be charged the users but should aim to bring about a gradual reduction in the regulatory power of government over the various types of carriers in the transportation system. For if transportation in America could be rid of most of the governmental meddling, all its branches would certainly prosper and grow more efficient.

Mr. Kennedy's message offers a few rays of hope but his proposals may not get anywhere because nobody — and that means no executive, no department, no agency — is given the concrete responsibility for putting the high-sounding recommendations into effect if Congress should agree to eliminate the barriers to efficiency now rooted in existing laws.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: You are supposed to be a big problem solver. I am 11 years old and I have a big problem for you to solve. I am too kind-hearted.

If the kid next to me wants to borrow an eraser I say yes. If the girl across from me wants to borrow some notebook paper I say yes.

These people know good and well that they need certain supplies to do their school work. Yet they are always running out of stuff and borrowing from me. I guess you might say my problem is I can't say no. Please help me. —JOHN.

Dear John: No is a perfectly respectable word — and you should learn, right now, how to use it.

Everybody runs out of something at one time or another. It is always nice to help a friend who is in a spot. There is such a thing as being a shnook, however. If the same person tries to borrow from you three days in a row I think you should tell him, "I have to buy my supplies and it's time you bought yours."

Busy Housewife

Dear Ann: My problem isn't original. There must be thousands of others in the same boat. What's the solution?

I arise at 5 a.m., fix lunches and breakfast for my husband and myself. He gets up at 5:45. At 7 a.m. I wake the two children, dress them, feed them and take them upstairs to the babysitter. I then dash to get the 7:30 bus. (My husband rides with a friend.)

After work I rush home, pick up the children and start supper. My husband gets home an hour before I do but he has to bathe, shave and read the evening news. After dinner and dishes I do some cleaning, washing and ironing.

My husband meanwhile is in his favorite chair watching TV and drinking beer. At 8 I stop whatever I'm doing and get the children bathed and ready for bed.

I then return to my cleaning and ironing. By this time my husband has had several catnaps. By 11:30 I'm ready to collapse, so I bathe and prepare for the next day. At midnight when I finally fall into bed, my husband gets romantic.

I can't afford to quit my job. What do you suggest? — TIERED.

Dear Tired: I'm surprised you aren't dead. How long do you think you can keep on with a 19-hour day?

Your husband should help you with the dinner dishes and the cleaning. He also can give you a hand by bathing the children and putting them into bed. From your description it sounds as if he doesn't touch the kids with a stick.

With his help you should be in bed by 10. And since he will have been pitching in, too, he won't be quite so zippy every night.

Sponge and Sponger

Dear Ann: I'm 20 years old and I work as a punch-press operator. I make very good money for a girl my age.

This fellow I've been going with since September is the best-looking guy who ever hit town. He's built like Rock Hudson and has a voice like Rock, too. Unfortunately, he has had some trouble hanging on to a job. I've kept up the payments on his car and gave him money for room rent a few times. He is very appreciative.

Please don't get the idea that he's a sponger because he isn't. He's just had some lousy breaks. When he's loaded he talks about marriage but when he's sober he avoids the subject. I'd give my eye teeth to marry this guy. How can I do it? — SOTHEARTED.

Dear Soft Hearted: He doesn't want your eye teeth, honey, he only wants your financial help and the pleasure of your company.

My advice is to drop him, unless you want to continue to pour your hard-earned dough down a bottomless well.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Larry Glenn Cross

Methodist Church Scene Of Brown-Cross Nuptials

Sue Illene Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Brown of 365 W. 10th St., and Larry Glenn Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cross of 218 S. Lincoln Ave., Lisbon, were united in marriage at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the chapel of the First Methodist Church.

Rev. William Longworth officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with schefflera and grape ivy and sided with twin vases of white snapdragons and carnations.

Mrs. Walter Hanzlick was soloist, and Homer Taylor presided at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace with sequins and seed pearls embroidering the fitted bodice graced with a Sabrina neckline and long tight sleeves ending in points at the wrist. The bouffant skirt was trimmed with self-roses and ended in a chapel-length train. A crown of crystal and seed pearls held her finger-tip veil of silk illusion, and she carried an arrangement of miniature carnations and greenery on a white Bible, gift of her mother.

Carol Ann Calvin, maid of honor, was gown in pale yellow summer pea with fitted bodice and bell skirt with matching pill-box hat.

COUNCIL TO MEET
LISBON — The Columbiana County Extension Advisory Council will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the county extension office here. Ralph Schneider of North Georgetown, chairman, will preside.

BABY-FINE HAIR

Baby-fine hair looks best cut short. A fullness at the top can be achieved by cutting and teasing the underlayers of hair while the top layers are left silky smooth. This style is good for a round face, since the height at the crown seems to add length. The sides hugging the cheekbones have a further slenderizing effect. Facial contour gets another assist from slightly parted but full bangs.

Regardless of the texture of your hair, it's time for one of the current coifs. Let us arrange it especially for you.

Lisbon Board In Need Of McKinley School Playlot

LISBON — A lengthy discussion on what land was needed for playground was the main item of discussion by the School Board Tuesday evening.

After the new addition of 14-rooms is added at McKinley School, little playground will remain because the new school was built on the former playground. There will be around 450 pupils who will stay at the school for for all 40,000 public school teachers.

The city ordered 1,200 policemen and an undisclosed number of plainclothes detectives to special strike duty.

Schools Superintendent John J. Theobald advised parents that all schools — except those for the physically handicapped — would open as usual, although students might have to return home for lack of instructors. Parochial and other private schools are not affected.

Theobald warned all teachers to be on the job or face instant dismissal under provisions of the state's Condon-Wadlin Act, which forbids strikes by public employees.

There was a strong possibility the Board of Education would seek a court injunction against the strike. It was prepared on Monday to obtain a restraining order to halt the walkout, originally scheduled for Tuesday.

The union called a one-day postponement so the rank-and-file could be heard on the city's latest offer—28 million and an indefinite strike postponement while a three-man committee sought additional money for education. The 28 million would be for pay increases in the next fiscal year.

Cogen and other leaders pleaded for acceptance of that offer, but the strike vote directed negotiators not to settle until the board of Education "agrees to make available more than $33.8 million."

Cogen, who immediately lined up with the majority, said teachers were victims of a "starvation budget."

The teachers, whose present wages range from $4,800 to $8,600 a year with bonuses for special categories, originally had asked $53 million. The city said it would be hard-pressed to come up with even $27 million.

sian or American, is the most vital issue facing the world today," he said.

Emphasizing that this issue will be resolved in the next 10 years, Dr. Furbay warned that Russia, despite its inferiority to the United States in every field, including space, is doing a better job of selling its political system than this country.

The speaker dwelt briefly on the European Common Market, stating that organization ultimately "will affect everyone in this room, most for the better."

The six nations which formed the nucleus of that organization probably will double within a year or two, he stated. Eventually, even the United States may join them, he said. The whole free world may someday be one common market out of necessity to meet competition from the market behind the Iron Curtain, he predicted.

Dr. Furbay touched upon the changes taking place in the Middle East, Israel, Japan, Australia, South America and Africa. Giving as an example the strides toward civilization taken by primitive people in recent times, he related the 100 per cent safety record established by an Ethiopian air line whose ground and flight personnel was virtually recruited from tribal villages 10 years ago.

"Those people were uncivilized only because they were isolated," Dr. Furbay said.

"The instantaneous knowledge now available to everyone through air travel and communication promises that the greatest age of man is just over the horizon," he said.

Prior to Dr. Furbay's address, Walter B. Null II, ex-president of the Chamber of Commerce, was presented a distinguished service award by J. Raymond Stiver, president, for Null's "outstanding leadership" during his tenure.

Stiver also introduced guests. Potter presented the guest speaker.

Rev. Bruce E. Milligan gave the invocation and benediction.

Civil War Unit Plans Enactment Of Morgan's Raid

A move to organize a re-enactment of Gen. John Morgan's famed Civil War raid through Indiana and Ohio was given a boost by the Tri-State Civil War Roundtable at a meeting Tuesday night at East Liverpool.

The roundtable approved a proposal by Edwin Pugh of Wellsville to seek support from the Civil War Centennial Commission for organizing a re-enactment of the July 1863 cavalry raid.

The commission is to meet shortly at Columbus. Pugh was instrumental in forming a tour of the route of the raiders in this area a few years ago. Morgan and remnants of his Confederate troops were captured by Union forces near West Point.

The roundtable last night discussed the "Great Locomotive Chase," a Union raid into Georgia in 1862 in which three district men took part.

William Campbell of Salineville, a civilian, along with William Pittenger and Perry Shadrach of Knoxville, Jefferson county, were among the 22 men who seized a Confederate train at Big Shanty, Ga., but were finally captured after a plummeling chase.

Robert Cole of Salineville last night said the Salineville Historical Society plans to erect a plaque at Woodland Cemetery in memory of Campbell who, along with Shadrach and five other men, were hanged for their part in the raid.

Pittenger and other survivors received the nation's first Congressional Medals of Honor.

The roundtable will meet again May 8.

Subcommittee Says Douglas Overpaid In Nike Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators have presented testimony that the Douglas Aircraft Co. made a $1.2 million profit on a Nike missile contract for doing work valued at $3.316.

A Senate subcommittee singled out the contract—in 1956-57, for 1,032 Nike launcher-loader devices—and invited Douglas officials to explain the figures.

The figures on the launcher-loaders were offered by the subcommittee's staff accountant after Douglas President Donald W. Douglas Jr. challenged previous testimony that his company had made profits of $63.81 million on Nike missile contracts since 1952.

Douglas said the firm's actual profits were less than half of that, running to what he said was a reasonable $29.8 million.

He contended the subcommittee's accountants mistakenly included $34.01 million of legitimate business expenses in the profits column.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., called staff accountant Thomas E. Nunnally to testify.

Nunnally and Robert E. Dunne, assistant committee counsel, placed in evidence what they described as records from Douglas company files.

Nunnally said these showed that $3,316 was the entire cost to the Douglas Co. for one order for 1,032 Nike launcher-loader devices in 1956-57.

The launcher-loaders, plus some other Nike equipment, were manufactured by Consolidated Western Steel Co., on a subcontract from Douglas, and delivered to the Army with a bill for $15.5 million Nunnally said.

McClellan said that $1,211,790 of this went to Douglas Aircraft and $1,733,286 went to Western Electric Co., the chief contractor.

It was voted to pay traveling expenses for coaches Tom McCall and Florida Suaze to the basketball tournament at Columbus.

George Gaydos, trustee, was authorized to investigate purchase of a new 10-passenger station wagon to replace the Boosters bus, and to receive bids for the sale of the bus.

world that without a change in the Soviet position, "the test series scheduled for the latter part of this month will go forward."

Macmillan also sent a new personal message to Khrushchev making a direct appeal for a modification of Soviet policy with the argument that the purpose of inspection "is not to increase suspicion but to dispel it."

He thus sought to overcome the Soviet contention that the Western powers want to put international inspection teams on Soviet territory for purposes of espionage.

The essence of Macmillan's argument, made many times in recent weeks by U.S. and British leaders, is that without a system of international verification none of the big powers could be sure that a test ban was being faithfully observed, and therefore suspicion of violations would inevitably grow up.

HEARING SCHEDULED

William Goetz, 28, of 442 Perry St., posted a $27 bond after he was arrested by police Tuesday for failure to pay two parking tickets he received on Jan. 24 and March 9. His hearing before Mayor Dean B. Cranmer is set for 7 tonight.

Shantz, Mejias Help Dump Cubs

2 Castoffs Pave Way For Colts' Initial NL Win 11-2

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer Shrewd talent appraiser Paul Richards, responsible for sticking his thumb into the National League draft bag for Houston's new entry, apparently pulled out two plums—pitcher Bobby Shantz and outfielder Roman Mejias.

Plucked by General Manager Paul Richards from the Pittsburgh roster at last year's special draft to stock the new NL clubs, the two castoffs reigned as Houston's first heroes after leading the Colts to an 11-2 victory over Chicago in their debut Tuesday.

McGaha Calls Performance 'Great'

Donovan Allows Only 5 Singles In 4-0 Shutout

BOSTON (AP)—Dick Donovan, the righthander Cleveland got in the trade for Jim Piersall, showed in the Indians' opener why he had the American League's lowest earned run average with Washington last year.

Donovan gave up just five singles and allowed one runner to reach second base in the Tribe's 4-0 victory over the Red Sox Tuesday. He struck out two men and walked only one.

Maris Ten Games Ahead Of '61 Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris said he wasn't nervous. He expected to be, but he wasn't.

"This was the first time in my six years in the major leagues that I wasn't nervous on opening day," said the man who knows the spotlight will be on him all season because of his record-breaking 61 home runs last year.

Maris gave every indication he felt right at home. In fact, he began where he left off last year, hammering a three-run homer in the fifth inning to help the Yanks defeat the Baltimore Orioles 7-6 in the champs' season opener Tuesday.

When Maris belted home run No. 1, a press box wag sang out, "That puts Roger 10 games ahead of Maris' record of 61." Roger did not hit his first home run last year until his team's 11th game.

Maris' thoughts following that right field blast off southpaw Billy Hoef were a little bit different.

"I said to myself, 'I'm glad that's over with,' Maris said later. "I had wondered how long I would have to wait for the first homer. After last year, you never know. It felt real good to get it."

"Now, please don't go writing that I'm going out for another home run record. The truth is I'm not even thinking about any records. I'm just going to keep swinging. If the home runs fall in, there's nothing I can do about it. If I hit 'em right and get enough lift, I'll get my share of home runs. But you've got to have the breaks."

222,675 Attend 2nd Day 'Openers'

By The Associated Press Almost a quarter of a million fans turned out Tuesday as major league baseball got its 1962 campaign rolling into high gear with eight second-day "openers" drawing 222,675 through the turnstiles.

Local Thinclads Take Firsts In Nine Events

By CARL NADRASY Coach Karl Zellers' Salem High track team poured on the power with firsts in the last five events to roll over a stubborn Wellsville squad 76-42 in Reilly Stadium Tuesday afternoon.

The win was the second in as many starts this season for the local thinclads, who were forced to battle a little harder than in last week's easy 79-39 victory over Campbell Memorial.

The Quakers captured nine of 14 events and looked especially strong in the distance races and in the weight competition. A late arrival by the Wellsville squad caused the meet to go on until 6:40 p.m., and the cool temperatures that prevailed during most of the competition prevented any sensational marks.

ALL THREE Quaker milers put on a sensational final kick of an eighth of a mile to leave the opposition almost standing still. Tarleton's winning time was 5:00.1, while Carter was clocked at 5:01.1 and Krause 5:01.6.

Salem's dual track meet with Newton Falls, previously scheduled for Friday afternoon, has been upped to Thursday, beginning at 4:30 p.m., according to F. E. Cope, high school athletic director. Cope said the change was made to allow a day of rest for local thinclads participating in the Tri-State Meet in East Palestine Saturday. If inclement weather should cancel the meet tomorrow, Cope said, it will be played on Friday as originally scheduled.

A 10.5 SECOND run by Wellsville's Jim Reed was enough to get him the 100-yard dash first, while Salem senior Dave Edling was second at 10.8 and junior Tom Bauman of Salem third at 11.2.

his performance of last Friday against Campbell with firsts in the 440-yard dash, the broad jump and the high jump, in addition to anchoring Salem's winning mile relay team.

The Bengals' final first place came in the 220-yard dash, with Jim Reed getting it in 24.5, followed by Salem's Bauman at 24.7 and Wellsville's Euill at 25.2.

ALTHOUGH Beery was able to capture both the high jump and the broad jump events again, the cool late afternoon air caused his winning marks to drop somewhat over last week's showings.

Competition will be provided by Newton Falls in the locals' next Stadium, beginning at 4 p.m.

In the high jump he was able to only go 5-2 to take the event, while last Friday his highest altitude was 5-6. At the broad jump pit, the Quaker ace managed a win yesterday afternoon with a 18-10½ leap, with his top mark 19-3 against Campbell.

JACKPOT — The New York Yankees seem to have hit the jackpot again with rookie Tommy Tresh. The 23-year-old son of old White Sox catcher, Mike Tresh, is a likely prospect to replace valuable shortstop Tony Kubek, now in the Army. He also is another switch-hitter, like Mickey Mantle, to annoy pitchers facing the World Champions this season.

Maris, Mantle, Skowron Hit For Circuit

Three Homers Give Yanks 7-6 Victory Over Orioles

The Moose may be ready to add another M to the New York Yankees' M & M power trademark.

Skowron opened the Yankees' scoring with a two-run inside-the-park homer in the fourth, watched Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle keep New York close with homers, then stroked a single that snapped a 6-6 tie in the eighth to wrap it up.

Luis Arroyo hurled the final inning for the Yanks.

Plagued with back trouble throughout an eight-year career, Skowron spent the winter strengthening the ailing muscles with a specially designed series of exercises. He hit 28 homers last season and could join Maris and Mantle in a triumvirate of terror if he could avoid the doctor.

Maris, meanwhile, tagged home run No. 1, a three-run shot in the fifth off Billy Hoef.

Elsewhere, Dick Donovan got Cleveland off winging with a five-hitter that blanked Boston 4-0; Chicago edged Los Angeles 2-1, and Kansas City defeated Minnesota 4-2. Detroit and Washington were not scheduled.

Skowron's game-winner came off reliever Hoyt Wilhelm and it drove in Elston Howard, who had doubled after Mantle's homer. Ralph Terry picked up the victory, taking the mound when 25-game winner Whitey Ford left after giving up eight hits and four runs in six innings. Relief special-

Cleveland, Ravenna Teams Also Advance

Salem's Beall Battery Wins In Local Basketball Tourney

Beall Battery of Salem, along with Cleveland B-W Tree Service and Ravenna Minard's Sporting Goods took preliminary round wins in the second night of action in the Little City Basketball Tournament on the Memorial Building hardwood.

The Beall Battery quintet, made up of players from the local Class A Bricker & Bricker team, downed a tough Orsburn's IGA unit 82-69, while B-W Tree Service blasted Columbiana Gosney's Insurance 113-72 and Ravenna Minard's Sporting Goods, replacing Johnny's Ashland of Salem in the tourney, upended Youngstown Rondinelli Tuxedos 79-67.

The sharp shooting of Bob Hutton and Bob Adams and the rebounding skill of Dean Nicholson proved too much for Orsburn's IGA, which sported 6-10 center

Jerry Dupont of Akron. Beall led all the way by quarter counts of 20-18, 42-33 and 56-54.

Hutton wound up with 27 points, while Adams and Nicholson added 20 markers apiece. Nicholson, although two inches shorter than Dupont, outplayed and out-rebounded his taller opponent.

Bob McMasters paced the losers with 19 tallies, while Rich Hunter, ex-Salem High great, garnered 18, Dupont 16 and John Hanna 12.

Gosney's, sporting teachers from the area school systems, was trounced by a Cleveland squad that had six players hit in double figures. The winners broke out to a 28-17 first period bulge and were never headed. The count was 51-36 at halftime and 79-49 after three quarters.

Bill Engel featured for the winners with 24 counters, while teammates Gary Probst and Arman Grossman were also high with 22 and 20 points respectively. Jack Alexander and Lee Klingensmith both chipped in 24 markers for the losers.

Jim Maddox, last year's tourney most valuable player, and other ex-Kent State University greats combined to down Rondinelli's.

The losers led at the initial quarter stop 19-16, but the Ravenna quint pulled ahead 36-32 at halftime and 58-56 after three stanzas.

Skeeter Wallace was the big gun for Minard's with 17 points, with teammate Clair Muscaro also high with 15. Ron Crosby featured for the Youngstown outfit with 19 markers, while teammate Clark Avery chipped in 17.

Tourney games on tap tonight are:

8-Cleveland Blepp-Combs vs Freedonia, Pa., Kasbee-Kremm
9-Beaver Falls, Pa., Corneki AC vs Ravenna Minard's Sporting Goods

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By RUFUS LIDE

The annual creel census, in which game protectors are checking fishermen and recording the hours fished, fish caught, size and length and the species taken, began last Saturday. These annual creel tabulations provide a record over a period of years regarding the trends in fishing, and provide a record of fish growth one way or the other, either becoming smaller or perhaps larger.

Lake Guilford is one of the oldest lakes in Ohio where an annual creel census has been made for the past 30 years. Test netting has been going on for a long time and the fish management section has the records to study, and with all biological facts at hand are able to plan a program of fish management according to years of research.

IT WAS interesting to hear the comments of fishermen I contacted last Saturday. One man said, "you should have been here yesterday when fishermen were catching 10 and 12-inch crappies." This could be, but I have to see it. Crappies that size have not been taken in Guilford in abundance for the past six years. Now it could be that the crappies are getting bigger. At least crappies are beginning to bite at Guilford. But Saturday was a poor fishing day with the barometer falling.

Bullhead catfish are biting at Guilford. One fisherman had eight that averaged 10 inches and had fished for two hours. That means he caught four fish per hour. The water temperature was 48 degrees and that means all fish should be getting active. The suckers should be moving in the streams any day now.

Crappie fishing at Westville Lake is good. Bass are also being taken. This lake is noted for the fishing until July 1. In other words, fishermen couldn't take bass when bass were biting. When the bass season opened a fisherman was lucky to get a 12-inch bass and it was believed there were no large bass in the lake.

DON'T TAKE my word for it. Ask the lake manager about Westville Lake bass. Many have been taken in the fine up seven-pound class in the early spring. Red Craven, the manager, was the first to open the season on all fish all year 'round.

Spring bass fishing has not hurt the bass population one bit, and Westville Lake is one of the outstanding examples of good fishing on a liberalized basis. Each year I see lunker bass on the spawning beds in the bay within 100 feet of my home. I live right on the lake.

Early spring means certain things — the traffic is terrific, the dandelions are dandy, spring lambs are kicking up their little heels and more mushrooms are popping up. While you are drinking this all in, get the old lawn mower in shape, since you will soon shut off the furnace and after finishing your eight hours of daily labor you can come home and start working until dark.

Twin City Skippers Won't Make Top Ten

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The Twin City Skippers, who lead the National Bowling League by seven games, will not make the top 10 in the classic division of the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The skippers, who represent St. Paul and Minneapolis, came up with a big 3077 series Tuesday night but it was too late. They opened with a 2880 series Monday night, which deflated their six game total of 5957.

Don Carter Gloves of St. Louis, leads the classic division team standings with 6248.

Bob Strampe paced the Skippers Tuesday night with a big 224-204-265-693 series.

Celtics Hold On NBA Title May Be Over

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There are signs that the Boston Celtics' mastery of the National Basketball Association is ending and that the fourth straight championship they seek may elude them.

The up-and-coming Los Angeles Lakers took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 NBA championship playoff series Tuesday night on a daring steal of a Boston pass with three seconds to go. It gave Los Angeles a 117-115 victory in the Sports Arena.

Jerry West, sensational Laker guard, snatched an in-bounds pass thrown by Sam Jones and intended for Bob Cousy. Anticipating the throw, West flashed in front of Cousy just as the ball was about to reach its target. In one sweeping motion, West started a dribble that he continued the 45 feet to the basket, where he sank a lay-up just as the gun sounded.

Just before this sensational play, West had been fouled by Boston's Bill Russell, and his two clutch free throws tied the score at 115-115, with the clock stopped.

Cincinnati Spoils Dodgers' New Stadium Debut 6-3

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds took kindly to the Los Angeles' Dodgers new stadium in Chavez Ravine right off Tuesday.

Alliance YMCA Plans Amateur Football Loop

The Alliance YMCA is attempting to form an amateur football league for men 18 years of age and older and under 200 pounds this coming fall, according to L. Warner Johnson, physical director.

"We are sure many men in the area would play the 11-man tackle game if given the chance and equipment," Johnson said.

At present, the Alliance YMCA is seeking men to help organize teams in surrounding communities. "We are planning to hold a meeting as soon as we have enough leaders to begin plans for operation next fall," Johnson reported.

Anyone interested in the league is asked to write to the YMCA in Alliance or phone TA 3-1930.

scored the first run of the Reds' 6-3 victory.

The very first home run struck in the ball park was a three-run blast by Wally Post in the seventh inning that won the game.

A throng of 52,564 was on hand for a game that proved gratifying for the Reds in several ways.

Just a few days ago, there was some concern over Post's poor hitting during spring training. But Wally produced two singles before smashing his homer over the centerfield fence at the 410-foot sign.

Jim O'Toole couldn't pitch because of a sore finger, so Manager Fred Hutchinson went with righthander Bob Purkey. And Purkey came through in fine style, with the familiar late-inning help from relief specialists Billy Henry and Jim Brosnan.

Rookie third baseman Tommy Harper collected three singles in four times at bat to lift his average for two games to .500.

And Vada Pinson had a perfect day at the plate with two doubles, two singles and a walk. Pinson knocked in Kasko with the first run, scored in the sixth, was aboard on Post's decisive wallop and tallied an insurance marker in the ninth.

Cincinnati, now even - Stephen after losing to Philadelphia Monday and winning with a 14-hit attack Tuesday, tries to gain the plus side of the ledger tonight.

The Reds pitcher will be Moe Drabowski. The Dodgers will go with the league strikeout king, Sandy Koufax (18-13 last year).

A Word From . . .

THERON at the Old Country Store

They tell me that some of the people in Washingtonville will be angry at me for writing these articles. I know that is not true. We are working more or less together. They are causing the people not to violate the law the second time. I am trying to get them not to violate it at all. Now why would anyone have cause to be angry at me for this?

Glorious Morning ...Glorious Day

Your New Beautyrest
Will Cost Only
A Penny More
Per Night To Own.

Yes, based on its 10 year warranty Beautyrest at $79.50 costs only a penny (the price of a stick of gum) more per night than an ordinary, so-called bargain mattress. Everyone can afford Beautyrest. Beautyrest... the happiness money can buy.

Remember... way back when... every morning started a day of new adventure and life was wonderful. You slept fine, didn't you?

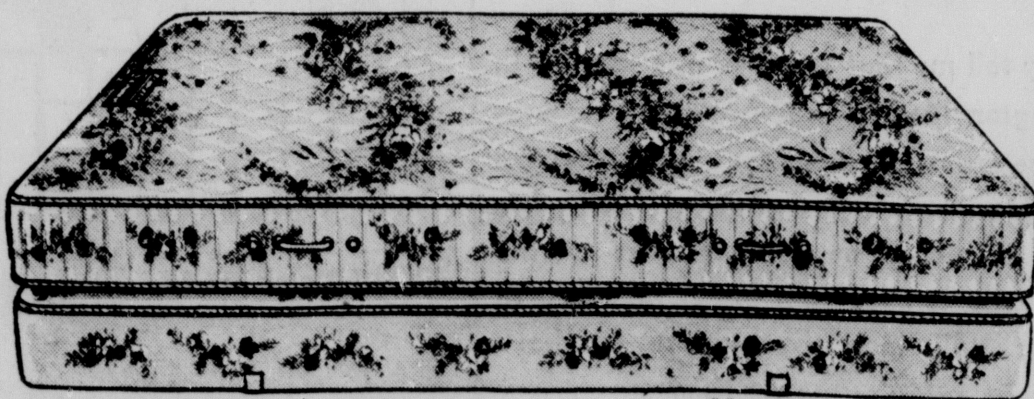

Maybe you can recapture some of that feeling by taking steps to improve your sleep... and how do you do that? A good starting point is to take a long hard look at the mattress you are using. Is it lumpy? Does it sag? Is it too hard? Too soft? Too small? If it is any of those, chances are you can improve your sleep with the right kind of mattress. But don't rush out and just buy a "new" mattress. Take enough time to get a mattress that is right for you—right in size—right in degree of firmness—right in spring action.

We think Beautyrest is best for most people but even in Beautyrest you should get the right model. And that's where we come in. Here you can find every Beautyrest model and here you'll find people who want to help you select the mattress that will do most to improve your sleep.

So when you yearn for better sleep... think of us and Beautyrest.
